In Year 2 your school Induction tutor should ensure you and your mentee have a dedicated time to meet fortnightly.

UCL recognises that mentors are busy professionals therefore they have tried to get the balance right between independent learning and face to face training. Over 50% of the mentor training programme comprises of flexible self paced online learning. Inspire Learning TSH also offers further networking and collaborative events over the course of the year so you can capitalise on the relationships you build with other mentors in your region as well as benefitting from expert facilitation led by Inspire Learning TSH.

UCL's curriculum centres on the cultivation of professional identity. This includes the cultivation of ECTs' identity as autonomous professionals, but also the cultivation of your identity as teacher educators and leaders.

As a teacher educator, we hope the mentor training programme will deepen your understanding of how early career teachers learn and grow. Many of the skills you learn on the programme, such as building relational trust, providing developmental feedback and managing potentially difficult conversations are foundational leadership skills. The curriculum also centres on criticality to support both you and your ECT to be critical consumers and producers of research.

UCL's ECF Programme

Successful completion of your mentor training programme is based on your programme engagement. Your engagement is monitored by UCL and the DfE, therefore it is vital that you 'mark as done' when you complete any activities on your platform. This includes when mentor meetings have taken place (ECT's should do this on their platform too). When you see 'To Do' this highlights a compulsory element for the course that you must complete such as the module evaluation forms at the end of each module. You must also ensure you attend your facilitated training sessions. You have three training sessions this year (two face to face and one online). Attendance at the sessions will be recorded and contribute to your programme engagement.
