Dear colleagues,

As we begin another academic year across Liverpool, Wirral and the wider communities we serve, I would like to extend a very warm welcome back to everyone in our Inspire Learning community.

A new school year brings anticipation, challenge and opportunity – new pupils, new colleagues, fresh ambitions and the chance to make a difference. As Hub Lead, I am continually inspired by the commitment, professionalism and dedication of teachers, mentors and school and Trust leaders across our region.

Education is a profession of huge responsibility, but also enormous reward. Every day, you have the opportunity to shape a young person's knowledge, confidence, aspirations and future. Much of what you do may not be immediately visible, but its impact can last a lifetime.

By investing in our young people, you are also investing in the future of our communities. We know the profession brings challenges, but we also know the pride, connection and sense of purpose that come from seeing young people thrive.

At Inspire Learning, we are proud to work alongside you throughout your professional journey. Thank you for everything you do and for the difference you make every day. Wishing you and your colleagues a successful, fulfilling and rewarding year ahead.

New SEND and Inclusion Training Materials Now Available

The Department for Education has published the first set of SEND In-House Training Materials to support schools and post-16 settings in delivering professional development on SEND and inclusion. The training materials form part of the government's wider commitment to strengthening support for children and young people with SEND and are designed to help settings build staff knowledge, confidence and understanding of inclusive practice.

The free, editable materials include structured training content, facilitator guidance, practical strategies and activities for discussion and reflection. They are designed to reduce the time needed to develop training materials locally and leaders can tailor them to their setting and use them during INSET days, staff meetings, staff development days and wider professional development programmes. Developed by Ambition Institute for DfE, the materials complement other SEND professional development opportunities, including the NPQ for SENCOs.

This first set of materials covers:

- Introduction to proposed SEND reforms and inclusive teaching
- Introduction to Areas of Development
- Speech, Language and Communication Development
- Supporting guidance for leaders and facilitators

Additional training materials will be published throughout the academic year, including further Areas of Development, practical teaching resources, case studies and professional development support materials.

Back in and straight to it! Our Liverpool Primary ECTs took part in an interactive Vevox activity as part of their Module One facilitated session.
